Sketch of Life and Services of Gen. George G. Meade.

There was a meeting of George G. Meade Post, No. 5, G. A. R., in Grand Army Hall last night, which was largely attended, the occasion being an address on "The Life of Gen. George Gordon Meade" by Adjt. L. H. Patterson. The address included a recital of many incidents of unwritten history in the career of General Meade. It having been asserted that General Meade, being born in Spain, was ineligible as a candidate for President of the United States, Adjutant Patterson claimed that he was eligible, as his father was the United States naval agent at the port of Cadiz, Spain, and the general was born at the naval

After giving the principal events of the After giving the principal events of the military achievements of the great Pennsylvania general, the orator referred in a complimentary way to the military services of Col. George Meade, the son, who was one of the general's faithful aids, and also to other members of the family, the only survivors being Miss Margaret Butler Meade, Mr. Spencer Meade, who is superintendent of the voluntary relief department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company; Mrs. Sarah Wise Large and Miss Henrietta Meade, all residing in Philadelphia, Pa. The speaker advocated the erection of a statue of General Meade in this city.

The address was favorably commented upon by Chaplain Henry S. Stevens, who participated in the battles of Fredericksburg and Gettysburg, and Past Department in the choruses. Quartermaster Matthews was elected to represent Meade Post on the memorial committee of the Department

It was announced that at the next meeting Senior Vice Commander E. A. Hara-don would deliver an address.
